Mothers March on Polio Here Tuesday Night

January 31 has been set as the date for The Mothers March on Polio here. Beginning at 7 o'clock, helpers will canvass the community to raise March of Dimes funds to help fight this dreadful disease. An effort will be made to ring every door bell. People are asked to have their porch lights on at this time.

Mrs. T. M. Richardson is chairman for the Mothers March, and will be assisted by Mrs. Crawford Davidson, chairman of the American Home Department of the Appomattox Junior Woman's Club, in carrying out her duties.

The members of Russia's Supreme Soviet recently underscored Moscow's new foreign policy by glorifying Soviet ties with its new Asian allies.

WILLIAM A. SWAN, JR.

William Alexander Swan, Jr., 50, died in his sleep at the home of his sister, Mrs. E. W. Brockwell, in Warwick early yesterday morning. He was born in Blusfield, W. Va., Sept. 7, 1905, son of the late William Alexander and Allie Wilson Wilkerson Swan. He was a member of the Mathew Baptist Church at Hixburg.

Besides his sister, Mrs. Brockwell, he is survived by one other sister, Mrs. R. E. McClenny, of Pamplin, and three nieces.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 2:30 P. M., from Pamplin Baptist Church, conducted by the pastor, the Rev. J. H. Anderson. Interment will be in the Swan family cemetery near Hixburg.

NEWS from HOLLYWOOD

Word comes that, because of the success of such Westerns as "The Tall Men," "Shane," and "High Noon," there is to be a cycle of such films aimed as adult tastes, both on the screen and over television. Among the famous Western characters being featured now is Wyatt Earp, played by a newcomer, Hugh O'Brien, an Ex-Marine, who is doing quite well in the new TV series.

Dana Wynter, the British actress whose first Hollywood role was in the film, 'The View from Pompey's Head," will have the starring role in "The Sixth of June." This is the role Dana wanted before making the first film.

Doris Day has finished her autobiography and plans to make it into a film, with Doris herself playing the title role. Doris' next film will be "The Amazing Nelly Bly," for Metro.

"The Wayward Bus," the John Steinbeck best-seller novel of a few years back, is to be made into a film by Charles Brackett. The story has a northern California setting.

"Little Tin Goddess," by Louis Stevens, has been bought by Anne Baxter and Russell Birdwell for their next production. They plan to make it in Oklahoma some time in April.

The whale to be seen in "Moby Dick," was built over the hull of a boat at a cost of $30,000. Two whales had to be built because the first drifted off to sea in a violent storm off the Irish coast during the filming of the story. The picture is to be released some time during the summer.

Sophia Loren, Italian actress, will have the feminine lead in "The Pride and the Prejudice," which is to be made in Spain, with Cary Grant and Frank Sinatra sharing the male leads. The story, based on C. S. Forester's novel, "The Gun," has a Napoleonic background.

"End As A Man," a New York play, has been bought by Sam Spiegel, producer of "Waterfront," and will be made into a film, starring Ben Gazzara. Many of the scenes will be made at The Citadel, famous military school in Charleston, South Carolina, which is now headed by General Mark Clark. The picture is scheduled to begin this month.

About Your Home

By Frances Dell

Of all the types of lettuce to be found in markets, the crisp headed Ice-burg seems to be the most popular in America. When choosing your lettuce, look for heads that are fresh, crisp, tender and fairly firm to hard.

Lettuce keeps well in the refrigerator and can be stored there for several days, even a week if the lettuce is very fresh when purchased, in a plastic bag or in the hydrator. Wash lettuce before it is put away or just before use. During washing, be sure to remove any bruised or rusty outer leaves. Thoroughly drain the washed lettuce and pat dry with a towel.

A very simple salad, but one that pleases everyone, is made by cutting the head of lettuce into wedge-shaped pieces. Pour over it your favorite dressing and serve on individual salad plates. Wilted lettuce salad, made with crisp bacon, is another favorite. This is simple to make and can be quite elegant.

If you nylon curtains have begun to droop, try startching them with permanent starch and pressing them lightly with a steam iron. This will work wonders. When you are ..eady to store these curtains, it is very important to remove all the starch.

Have you ever had a hard time getting muffins out of the pan? If you have, you will be glad to add this to your bag of tricks— place the pan on a cold wet rag for a few minutes immediately after it comes from the oven.

IN FASHION NOW

The sugar coating to spring's chill is indubitably a good-looking, comfortable coat. This spring Cashmere coats will be outstanding. They are beautiful to look at, soft and light to wear, and are more reasonable in price now than ever before. On top of all these good qualities, they wear well.

Even for spring, women are reluctant to give up the tent coat. Its bulk has many virtues. It fits well over any type of skirt from full to slim. The new loose coats have modified fullness, however. They are said to be equally becoming and comfortable.

Ease alone is not fashion news. The point to focus on is the waistline. The waistline of coats is rising. Two fore-runners of this almost Empire line were outstanding in the Dior collection and others were featured in a recent Italian showing of spring fashions.

Collars, too, came in for a lot of attention. They were either in careful proportion or in careful out-of-proportion. These very emphatic collars are becoming to the tall, slender girl. Choose the scale best suited to your height and your length of neck.

Back interest is played up in new spring dresses and soft silk suits. This line is usually very flattering. The very short girl will have to watch the amount of trim she wears but done sparingly, it is a becoming line.

Bright colored shoes and shoes that are the same color as the dress will be popular. Slim, very high heels are quite the thing. Plastic, gold and silver kid, and rhinestone-studded decor will take over the evening shoe lineup again.

Bulky knit sweaters worn by petite and not-so-petite women will be outstanding. Their big, bold stitches will look reminiscent of rugged sweaters of athletes.

Subscription rate: $2.00 a year payable in advance.

Silk still plays a big role in the economy of Japan.

Meet Your Cooperative Neighbor

Me, in a successful private enterprise? Sure I am! So's every other rural electric member-consumer. All across the country hundreds of rural electric systems like our own are dedicated to bringing electric service at cost to each and every member on their lines. No hidden charges here! We pay our taxes, own and operate our own business in the real American democratic tradition.

Private enterprise? Of course it is. Our rural electric is locally-owned and locally-controlled right in its own area. How private can you get? And that means a lot too! After all, who can best understand our local needs? Why, the folks living here, of course! And who can best make plans for the future? There again, the folks who get their electric service from the rural electric. We each have one vote at election time every year, and we each have the same right to hold office on the board.

Why, our business is as American as grits or apple pie—always has been, and we're going to keep it that way.

MORRIS - O'BRIEN

Mrs. Cleveland Jackson Morris

The wedding of Miss June Constance O'Brien, daughter of Joseph Earl O'Brien, of Appomattox and the late Mrs. O'Brien, to A 1/C Cleveland Jackson Morris, U. S. Air Force, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland Henson Morris, of Buckingham County, took place Saturday, January 21, at 4:00 P. M. at the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. O'Brien, in Buckingham County.

Rev. Dott Bryan officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

The living room was decorated with lighted tapers in a circular candelabra, with flowers of yellow snapdragons, chrysanthemums and acacias.

The bride wore a costume suit of oyster white french brocade. The sheath dress was covered by a fitted jacket with bracket length sleeves and a peplum flaring from the waist line. Her contour sheel half hat was designed entirely of pearls. She wore a purple orchid corsage.

Miss Nora Frances O'Brien, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and the bride's only attendant. She wore a street length dress of baby blue wool with matching accessories. She wore a white orchid corsage.

Donald Eugene Morris, brother of the groom, was best man.

After a wedding trip the couple will make their home at Orlando, Florida.

AID FOR FUTURE WORKING WIVES SHOWN IN STUDY BY ECONOMISTS

Blacksburg, Va.- The young woman of today, seriously interested in her future, may well face some trends of modern times, as shown this week in facts and figures from the Virginia Home Economics Association.

The Association completed a study of the nearly 50 per cent of its membership who are working "Mrs." home economist, and noted the similarity to working women generally in Virginia and the United States, as reported by the Woman's Bureau of the U. S. Department of Labor.

"Our studies reveal that a young girl can no longer assume that she will not need or want to work at sometime during her life, either before or after marriage," Mrs. Mildred T. Tate, chairman of the Association's public relations committee, said. "With women controlling 85 per cent of all family income and buying 80 per cent of all consumer goods, a young girl needs training for these home and financial responsibilities."

Mrs. Tate pointed out that, in view of the national figures, which show the increasing number of working wives, the number of children they have, and their age average which is now 38 years compared to 26 years at the turn of the century, a girl of today may very likely find herself among the "labor force" of tomorrow.

The Association's own membership list continues to have an increasing number of "Mrs." members, she said. "We know, of course that a home economist is exceptionally employable at any age, making the training the ideal preparation for any girl. No other profession offers the dual advantage of training a girl to be a superior wife and mother, while at the same time preparing her for a career. We made the survey of our own married members to let them tell the story."

A love of their professional work was listed by 75 per cent and financial by 72 per cent as "first" reasons for being employed. The great need for home economists plus her own individual speciality were the next two first reasons of the married group.

A working home economist, Mrs. Tate explained, is daily engaged in helping others to attain better personal, family and home living and also applying the same practices and improvements at home. Breaking this down, the "Mrs." home economists listed 17 major categories in which they felt their training aided them in being better homemakers and combining work with housekeeping.

Topping the list were such essentials of housekeeping as easier, more efficient and economical buying and use of food, clothing, household equipment and furnishing, better planning and management for simplified household routines, and more attractive, comfortable homes.

Among other things as nutritious meal planning and preparation, they cited the everyday adjustments, appreciation and understanding needed in marriage, and the guiding of family living to ever better heights as being eased immeasurably by their professional tarining.

Ninety-five per cent have worked since their marriage, and 82 per cent are now working full time. Eighty-one per cent are married, 14 per cent are widowed, and 4 per cent are divorced. Thirty-five per cent have one or more children.

Nearly half have been married 16 or more years.
